PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This year's theme, Mardi Gras, will be a celebration of the sights and sounds, the food and drinks that are New Orleans...or, if you prefer, Nawlins. This year we depart from our traditional presentation of the evening Cabaret dinner show. The Saturday and Sunday evening Dinner show instead, will be a Mardi Gras Murder Mystery. You won't want to miss it. You will have loads of fun as you interact with the folks at your table, the cast and the rest of the audience. You will be immersed in a world of suspense and intrigue, as you become a detective trying to solve the murder. The clues will unfold on stage as you meet each potential perpetrator, as the roles are performed for you by the, "Citrus Fair, Mardi Gras Players". You will want to get your tickets early, as we expect both shows will be sold-out. Remember, you may buy a whole table at no extra charge. Table selection will be on a first-come, etc. basis.

And to all of our friends and neighbors and our volunteer helpers, thank you for your support and participation. As president of the Cloverdale Citrus Fair Board of directors, and on behalf of the officers and directors, I welcome you to the fair. It is through your efforts that our community fair is among the top fairs in California. Mardi Gras, what a fun theme!

GLOSSARY OF TERMS:

Hot Pack: Heating of raw food in boiling water or steam and filling it hot into jars.

Cold Pack: Canning procedure in which jars are filled with raw food. "Raw Pack" is the preferred term for describing this practice. "Cold Pack" is often used incorrectly to refer to foods that are open-kettle canned or jars that are heat-processed in boiling water.

Open Kettle Canning: A non-recommended canning method. Food is supposedly adequately heat processed in a covered kettle, and then filled hot and sealed in sterile jars.

Raw Pack: The practice of filling jars with raw, unheated food.

Pickling: The practice of adding enough vinegar or lemon juice to a low-acid food to lower its pH to 4.6 or lower.

Jelly: is made from strained fruit juice. The product is clear and firm enough to hold its shape when turned out of the container, yet soft enough to spread.

Jam: is made from crushed or ground fruit and tends to hold its shape but is generally less firm than jelly.

Butters: are made by cooking fruit pulp and sugar until thick enough to spread easily.

Conserves: are jams made from a mixture of fruits, usually including citrus fruit; often raisins and nuts are added.

Marmalade: is a tender jelly with small pieces of citrus fruit or citrus peel distributed evenly throughout.

Preserves: are whole fruits or large pieces of fruit in thick syrup, often slightly jellied.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS:

Hot Pack: Heating of raw food in boiling water or steam and filling it hot into jars.

Cold Pack: Canning procedure in which jars are filled with raw food. "Raw Pack" is the preferred term for describing this practice. "Cold Pack" is often used incorrectly to refer to foods that are open-kettle canned or jars that are heat-processed in boiling water.

Open Kettle Canning: A non-recommended canning method. Food is supposedly adequately heat processed in a covered kettle, and then filled hot and sealed in sterile jars.

Raw Pack: The practice of filling jars with raw, unheated food.

Pickling: The practice of adding enough vinegar or lemon juice to a low-acid food to lower its pH to 4.6 or lower.

Jelly: is made from strained fruit juice. The product is clear and firm enough to hold its shape when turned out of the container, yet soft enough to spread.

Jam: is made from crushed or ground fruit and tends to hold its shape but is generally less firm than jelly.

Butters: are made by cooking fruit pulp and sugar until thick enough to spread easily.

Conserves: are jams made from a mixture of fruits, usually including citrus fruit; often raisins and nuts are added.

Marmalade: is a tender jelly with small pieces of fruit or peel distributed evenly throughout.

Preserves: are whole fruits or large pieces of fruit in thick syrup, often slightly jellied.
